In 2006, Dr. Marika immigrated to Canada with her husband and two young children. She quickly realized that the healthcare system in her new country was very different from the one she was used to. She was particularly struck by the lack of support for caregivers.

Dr. Marika decided to use her skills and experience to help fill this gap. She founded a non-profit organization called the Caregivers' Support Network, which provides support and resources to caregivers in the Fraser Valley region of British Columbia.

In 2014, Dr. Marika was elected as a school trustee for the Abbotsford School District. She is the first person with a medical background to be elected to this position in Canada.

As a school trustee, Dr. Marika has been a strong advocate for students with special needs and for the well-being of all students. She has also worked to improve communication between the school district and the community.

In 2018, Dr. Marika was appointed as the Superintendent of Schools for the Abbotsford School District. She is the first woman and the first person with a medical background to hold this position.

As Superintendent, Dr. Marika is responsible for the leadership and management of the school district. She is committed to providing all students with a high-quality education in a safe and supportive learning environment.

Dr. Marika's story is an inspiration to anyone who wants to make a difference in the world. She is a role model for women, for immigrants, and for anyone who believes that they can make a positive impact on their community.

Her book, "How Doctor Marika Became Caregiver And Superintendent In Canada," is a must-read for anyone who is interested in the power of one person to make a difference.
